

BUCKS COUNTY CELEBRITIES

By Grace Chandler

Well-known Bucks County newspaperwoman, writer, and editor of "The American Scroptivist"

A compilation of many interesting facts about those who are well-known on stage and screen, and in the literary and artistic fields of today, who are making their homes in Bucks County.

JO DAVIDSON—Sculptor; HENRY CHAPIN—Poet Jo Davidson's facile fingers have immortalized in marble and bronze the features of many of the world's great. A sculptor, he has met and modeled almost all the most significant figures of modern times.

"There goes the old head-hunter," Will Rogers used to say whenever he ran across the sculptor with the big beard and jaunty, youthful carriage.

In his large workshop near La-haska, the heads peer out from the dusty shadows along the studio walls. General Pershing, Lloyd George, Clemenceau, Joffre, Foch and Wilson, figures out of the tragedy of the first World War stare from their pedestals in ghostly silence. In serried ranks stand Andrew Mellon, Paderewski, Hoover, Lenin, Einstein, Mussolini and Ghandi, a fantastically mixed company in metal and clay.

In the center of the studio is a huge head, that of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the greatest of them all in Davidson's eyes.

There are only a few representatives of the staff side but it is the bronze bust of a woman that draws the visitor's immediate attention. In her image, Davidson has captured all the character, the patience and the kindness in the features of this great woman who has overcome the handicaps of the blind, deaf and mute to live a full, useful life—Helen Keller. He considers it the most inspirational work he has ever done.

Born in New York 64 years ago, Davidson had to leave school in his teens to support himself by any job he could find. He was a messenger, a locksmith's apprentice, and a leatherworker before the day when he accidentally picked up a piece of modeling clay, felt his heart jump, and knew that whatever stood in his way he would become a sculptor.

Now famous and successful, he lived in Paris for 30 years before he returned home, as he returned home, as he says, "to dig in and become a Pennsylvania Dutchman." An urban dweller most of his life he is enjoying the rural routine on his 100-acre farm, where he lives in an old Dutch farmhouse. It was built in 1780 and he has remodeled it slightly—leaving intact the original pine floors and a huge open fireplace which dominates the dining room.

Asked one time how long it takes to sculpt a head, the "head hunter" replied, "Well, that depends upon the person. Some people are novels.
Others are just short stories."

HENRY CHAPIN
Curiosity as to what made this America of ours tick stirred a Yankee from Springfield, Mass., to spend ten years discovering what this strange continent, with its variable climate, its hard physical environment and its see-saw economy, had done to breed Americans.

Henry Chapin turned poet to trace that inheritance in a book-length narrative in blank verse entitled "West Walking Yankee."
It is a crisp and lucid dramatization in poetic form of the American frontier. It unrolls a remarkable panorama of our pioneer beginnings. He journeyed from coast to coast for source material, checking original documents, diaries, handbills, court records, charts and maps.

Specifically, it describes the successive migrations of a family of settlers from Massachusetts, over the Alleghenies to Ohio and the west, and out to the Pacific to the gold strike. It points out the peculiar quality of our national culture that makes the American a different kind of man from any of the stocks from which he sprang.

It took a year and a half to find a publisher. A stubborn man, Mr.
Chapin believed that the story would be more effective in verse and refused offers to publish the book provided he rewrite it in prose.

He visited Bucks County in 1932

Don't Veto That Tax Bill

—by—
SAMUEL B. FETTINGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

Will President Truman override the huge majorities in the House and Senate in favor of reducing taxes? He will be playing with fire if he does.

Whatever may be said of the right to veto bills, only extreme reasons could justify the veto of a tax bill.
These reasons do not exist.

The "power of the purse" is the peculiar prerogative of the people through their legislative representatives. When the British Parliament wrested the power to tax from the King, it made one of the greatest gains for liberty in the history of mankind.

The Constitution provides that bills to raise (or lower) revenues must originate in the House of Representatives, and not in the White House. The one occasion when President Roosevelt vetoed a tax bill added nothing to his reputation.
This was the time when majority leader Barkley resigned his post in protest.

ELKS PRESENT FLAG TO BOY SCOUT TROOP

Lodge Holds Flag Day Ritual Jointly With Presentation

25 SCOUTS ATTEND

In keeping with a mandatory order of the Supreme Lodge of Elks, Bristol Lodge, No. 976, B. P. O. Elks, last night observed Flag Day in a most practical and fitting manner.

Assembled in the lodge room of the Elks Home here the officers and members participated in a beautiful and patriotic ceremony which culminated in the presentation of an American flag to a Boy Scout Troop.
The flag was edged with gold fringe and gold tassels suspended from a brass eagle on the top of the staff on which the flag is mounted.

Recipient of the appropriate gift was Boy Scout Troop No. 69, of Croydon, of which Phillip Meyer is scoutmaster.

Bristol Lodge has presented four Boy Scout troops and one Girl Scout troop with flags since the end of the war. Perpetuation of the honor and respect for the flag and with the loyalty and devotion which the national emblem commands, the Elks are keeping the banner of the United States of America foremost.

Twenty-five scouts were grouped about the room with the officers of Bristol lodge in position at their various stations. The Elks officers

FOR YOUR SCRAPBOOK

Three years from now, the following comments will be well worth remembering.

Perhaps you will wish to clip this editorial and set it aside for reference at that time.

In the summer of 1950 a political campaign will be on.
Pennsylvania will be deciding how to vote, among other offices, for candidates for Governor of the Commonwealth and for United States Senator.

Presumably Francis J. Myers, the State's Senior representative in the Upper House of Congress, will be seeking re-election.
He will be opposed by a Republican nominee—of course, it's only a matter of guesswork, at this time, who that R. publican will be.

In that still-distant election, it may well be that the most important single issue will rise out of the Senate roll-call last Friday on the Labor Bill.

DON'T EVER FORGET HOW SENATOR MYERS VOTED ON THAT BILL!

He voted against it. He was one of only 17 members of the U. S. Senate—total membership eligible to vote, 95—who voted "no".

Senator Myers' Republican colleague, Senator Martin, had strongly supported the measure. He was absent at the time of the roll-call, having been excused to make an important address in Milwaukee before the national convention of Young Republicans. But before leaving he entered into a "pair" to indicate his favorable attitude.

Senator Myers' vote has great immediate importance, as well as its bearing on the question of whether he is entitled to re-election when his term expires.

It is nip-and-tuck whether President Truman will veto the Labor Bill, and still closer whether the Senate would be able to re-pass it over such a veto. Every vote counts. It would take 32 Senate votes to block a veto. Opponents assert that, if all opposing Senators had been present, the "no" vote would have been 25 instead of 17. They also say that at least four Democrats who favored the bill have promised to vote against over-riding a veto, and that others are "on the fence" in this phase of the matter.

DOYLESTOWN BOARD WILL BORROW $10,000

To Construct Fire Escape, Pave Playground, Purchase Some Furniture

PRESSURE IS NOW LOW

DOYLESTOWN, June 14—For the purpose of constructing a fire escape which may cost $4500, paving the school playground and purchasing new movable furniture for six grade class rooms, Wesley Bunting, treasurer, at a meeting of the Doylestown school board, Monday evening, was authorized to draw up the necessary resolution in order to borrow $10,000.

Although the meeting was held a week later than usual, the board could do nothing about adopting the 1947-48 school budget, setting the tax rate or increasing teachers' salaries because of the uncertainty about legislation. A special meeting will be held June 18, for the purpose of adopting the budget, discussing salary increases and setting the tax rate.

Dr. J. Leonard Halderman, supervising principal, reported that Fred F. Martin, who has designed the fire escape plans, will go to Harrisburg this week for final confirmation.

A letter from the Bureau of Inspection, Harrisburg, was read in which Robert Ross stipulated that if the door on the high school stage is kept open and plainly marked as an exit into the corridor it will not be necessary to make another exit in the high school auditorium.

The board, following a discussion concerning the fact that the state at one time approved the present fire exits as adequate, assured the Bureau of Inspection that the door will always be kept accessible and serve as an emergency exit.

Dr. Halderman urged beginning the construction of the fire escape as quickly as possible following the closing of school.

Following a recommendation by Dr. Halderman, Miss Joan T. Gaughan, 20, Jessup, who is graduating with a degree from East Stroudsburg State Teachers' College, was employed by the board at a salary of $2,000. Miss Gaughan will serve as a third grade teacher this year and second grade the next term.

Since Mrs. James B. Pretz is taking a leave of absence in order to obtain her degree in a New York N. Y. university, there will be a vacancy.

Asserting that the low water pressure was doubtless due to not enough pressure in the stand-pipe, Dr. Halderman said that the water pressure has been so low recently that there was none available in the drinking fountains on the third floor.

Groff & Carwithen were awarded

Clear Way for New Toll Bridge

Harrisburg—The way was cleared today for construction of new toll bridges across the Delaware River.

Legislation authorizing construction between the northern border of Philadelphia and the New York state line has been signed by Gov. James H. Duff.

The bill was sponsored by Sen. Edward B. Watson (R) Bucks, who said his constituents had discussed possible construction of a span near New Hope.

The act gave the building power to the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission operated under a compact between Pennsylvania and New Jersey. The Commission also was authorized to acquire and rehabilitate existing spans.

Another measure bearing the Governor's signature directed the Delaware River Joint Commission, a twin agency, to survey possible Philadelphia port improvements that would promote commerce on Pennsylvania's outlet to the Atlantic Ocean.

Sponsored by Rep. Ellwood J. Turner (R) Delaware, the bill was signed by Duff at the same time that New Jersey's governor, A. E. Driscoll, sanctioned a similar measure endorsed by his State's legislature.

Pennsylvania pledged $65,000 to finance the survey.

Sight Plane Wreckage; "No Hope" for 50 Aboard

Leesburg, Va.—The wreckage of a DC-4 Capital Airlines transport was sighted from the air on a Blue Ridge mountain peak today by an airline official who said there was no hope for any of the 50 persons aboard the plane. The airliner was located about 14 miles southeast of Martinsburg, W. Va., on the airline route between Pittsburgh and Washington.
It had been missing since 7:13 p. m., EDT, last night.

James Franklin, Capital Airlines maintenance director, flying a small scout plane out of Winchester, Va., located the wrecked transport.

The Blue Ridge mountain region of Virginia, where a search was conducted for a missing Capital Airlines plane, is the same rugged country in which the airline suffered its first air fatality—Sept. 1, 1940.

Up to that day, Pennsylvania Central Airlines, predecessor of Capital, had flown 13 and a half years without a fatality.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Republican Opportunity

Washington, June 14.
AS recently pointed out in this space, even though partially blocked by presidential veto and Administration resistance, it is apparent the Republicans can justify claim—and the country will accord credit for the major program of tax reduction, debt reduction, curtailment of governmental costs and labor legislation—all of which are clearly desired.

THEY will have put these proposals through Congress where they had power and responsibility.
The degree to which they are watered down or nullified clearly will be Democratic responsibility—largely White House responsibility.
From there the party—and Administration opposition—has been formulated. Unquestionably, the Republicans can make out a strong case along these lines—and will.
But if they want to make their case stronger and their public support greater, they have a very fine opportunity, indeed.

THIS is presented in the pending proposals: (1) For universal military training; (2) for the unifor-mation of the Army and Navy under Perkasie, the defendant in an action in trespass.

According to the statement of the thonotary Isaac S. Gross, the plaintiff was operating a vehicle January 25, 1945, which figured in a collision with a car driven by the defendant.

The collision happened on Route 309, White Horse Hill, north of Sel-ersville.

Mrs. M. Elizabeth White Hunt, Newtown, has named her husband, James Young Hunt, of the same address, the respondent in a libel in divorce. They were married October 31, 1944, in Trenton, N. J.

Harold S. Hunt, Newtown, has

Mrs. Cecelia Ziara, Trumbauers-ville, has named her husband, organization is no stronger than the members wish to make it."

These Roses Had Thorns, Too!

(By "The Stroller")
It's rather late in reaching us, but it's too good to keep!

It appears that just previous to Mother's Day a sixth ward woman received through the mail two rose bushes. There was no card to tell who might have sent them, only the address of the nurseryman.

Her decision was that her son who is in the same state the rose bushes came from, must have sent her a Mother's Day gift. Her favorites were yellow roses, and these were red rose bushes, but her next thought was that the son couldn't get the color she likes so well.

Thrilled with the gift, she telephoned various relatives to tell them the good news; then neighbors were called to the lawn to help decide where to plant the bushes. Soon the roses were in the ground and well watered.

Several nights later, while attending a meeting of one of her organizations which was sponsoring a commercial demonstration, the sixth ward resident blushed to the roots of her hair when the demonstrator turned to her and inquired, "Did you receive your roses?" "Yes," the localite managed to reply weakly.

It seemed hours before the demonstrator left and the local matron could explain the whole thing to her co-members. It appears that the bushes were sent by the firm represented by the demonstrator as a gift for the local organization.

Members insisted that the planter keep the bushes, but she insisted just as strongly that the organization should have them. Result—the bushes were dug up, and replanted elsewhere.

FLAG STILL FLIES Flying out, flung out with cheer and shout.
To all the winds Our Country's Banner!
Be every bar, and every star, Displayed in full and glorious manner!

—Abraham Coles.

The nation observes Flag Day and everywhere the Stars and Stripes flies from staffs atop public and business buildings, it ripples up and down the avenues, it is in the front windows of shop and home. It is there on the lawns and porches of all the town and countryside.

A few Americans seem to give little notice. Others pause and give thought to the meaning of Flag Day and a few to the special significance of this Flag Day of 1947.

Today Americans are privileged to gaze upon their country's banner in all these places without let or hindrance. They take it for granted. But only two years ago the display of the flag was being purchased in blood on Okinawa.
Freedom, along with the Stars and Stripes, was coming back to the Filipinos. Only a few months before, a great German lunge into the very heart of American armies had sent a stab of fear throughout this land.

As the Stars and Stripes waves in proud freedom only because of the victory purchased in blood so recently, let every American resolve to become still more vigilant to thwart the forces—at home and abroad—that would lower Old Glory and raise the red banner of Communism.

SLEUTH IN FACT
When reporters called on Asher Rossetter the day he retired as vice president and general manager of Pinkerton's National Detective Agency, Inc., they went away disappointed. Naturally they were after reminiscences of mysterious crimes solved by one of the greatest of real-life sleuths, for Asher Rossetter joined Pinkerton's 60 years ago and he has been directing its 4,500 employees since 1923. And he had no "detective stories" to tell.

He did give the reporters an account of the one case that gave him "more fun" than any other.
That was the Mud Cut train robbery, near Omaha, in 1909. Five robbers stopped the Union Pacific's Overland Limited and took four or five sacks of mail. Three of them were easily caught, because of an oversight on their part. Two others were more troublesome, and Mr. Rossetter was responsible for tracing one of them.

In the boarding house where the men had lived he found a scrap of paper, hidden under the newspaper lining of a bureau drawer, with a Kansas City telephone number on it. That led him to a waitress, Katie Snell, who described the gang leader: "He talks through his teeth and they call him Bill."

The Oregon office identified him as William Matthews, twice-convicted murderer. Then the detectives found a man who owed him money, in Buhl, Ida. They figured Matthews, who had obtained no loot in the robbery, would try to collect. He did.

Every negative vote was an incentive to the President to veto the Bill. He would veto it in a minute if he thought he could "get away with it." And if he does, it might easily develop that the single vote of Senator Myers might be enough to sustain the veto—and throw labor strife back into the confusion in which it has wallowed throughout the Truman Administration.

If that happens, there can be no labor legislation at this session of Congress. And the "war" will be on again. The nation can plunge at once into a great coal strike—and a repetition of all the other country-wide tie-ups of last year.

In reaching his decision, Senator Myers set at defiance the elections of last November, and what appears to have been the unmistakable intention of the voters of this State.

He defied the State sentiment. Largely on the labor issue, and a promise to draft exactly the sort of corrective Bill now before the President, the Republican party carried the State last year by a landslide.

Senator Myers voted against his home city, Philadelphia.
The Quaker City went into the election with six Democratic Congressmen, all advocating exactly the same "labor philosophy" which Senator Myers voted to support. Every blessed one of them was "fired" by the voters; and a solid ticket of Republican Congressmen, pledged to enact the Labor Bill in question, elected by a heavy vote.

Senator Myers voted against a tide running in labor itself.
Conspicuous in the State election was the heavy vote increases enjoyed by Republicans in all strongly unionized parts of the state. Union membership itself has been calling for protection from its own "bosses." Senator Myers voted not to give that protection.

Senator Myers voted against letting the unions in his own home community fire the Communists out of control of certain key spots. Philadelphia labor circles have seethed for months with a fight over Communist infiltration. The Labor Bill would give the anti-Communists leverage to oust the Communists.
Senator Myers voted to deny them that help.

Senator Myers voted against a roll-call majority of his own party. Fourteen other Democratic Senators voted against the Bill, seventeen for it.

Senator Myers voted against the recommendations of his own President. Eighteen months ago President Truman told Congress that the labor laws needed correction. He presented some half-baked ideas about the subject, which no one liked and he later abandoned; and he told Congress that the thing to do was to work out its own best thought on the program. The present Labor Bill is Congress' second try at this assignment.
made this time on the strength of a tremendous vote of confidence by the American people as well as innumerable hearings.
Yet the Senator is against it.

Senator Myers voted to scrap all new controls over disorderly labor unions and bosses, despite the fact that his own party's President, on the firing line in the railroad strike, recognized the need and the peril to the extent of demanding that Congress give him the right to draft union workers and make them go back to their jobs at the point of a figurative bayonet.

Senator Myers is in the Upper House, representing a great industrial State and his home metropolis, not because he received what might be termed a "call" for that service; but largely as a result of political accidents and coincidences.

The year he was elected was the famous Fourth Term campaign of President Roosevelt. Senator Myers rode the President's coat-tails—and very nearly fell off. President Roosevelt carried Pennsylvania by 105,000 votes. Senator Myers squeaked through by less than 24,000.

The re-election of President Roosevelt was maneuvered by a double-barreled "deal" at the Chicago convention, with the late Sidney Hillman on one side of the table, representing CIO and PAC; and a string of big-city political gang-bosses on the other. Thanks to a complacent attitude on the part of President Roosevelt's hand-picked Attorney General, laws which everyone thought limited labor activities in such campaigns were disregarded; and the Communist-tinged PAC "went to town"— especially in Pennsylvania.

Anyone who wishes is free to think that President Roosevelt, with his larger majority, could have carried the state anyhow; but it certainly should be obvious that the slender victory of Senator Myers resulted solely from the dragooned votes and political contributions extorted from working people by the PAC high-pressure boys.

Who is it, then, whom Senator Myers represents in the U. S.
Senate?

Is it the whole population of this great state, which has more "chips" in the labor dispute than perhaps any other; which has been Republican most of the time since the Civil War; which demanded a new labor code in the most unmistakable language last fall?

Is it the great industrial metropolis of Philadelphia, all the wealth and prestige of which revolves around labor-management issues, which has been consistently Republican for eighty years, and which confronted Senator Myers with a "mandate" last year by defeating every Democratic Congressman who supported the labor views he shares?

Or is it a handful of labor plotters and bosses, who are the ones that opened the union gates to the Communists, and who last year dragged this nation to the threshold of anarchy and revolution?

Those are questions to bear in mind three years from now.
Meanwhile, if you don't feel that Senator Myers' vote against any labor-law changes in the present session correctly represents your own feelings, as one of his constituents, by all means let him know about it.

Conventionally Conservative

By MARIAN CLYDE MCCARROLL

Those who are producing prefabricated homes today are making every effort to please all tastes. Prospective home owners who like the traditional type of dwelling, for example, will find that their fondness for the more conservatively designed house has been carefully considered in a variety of architectural styles, while others, with a fancy for a touch of modern streamlining, discover that their desires have by no means been forgotten.

The house pictured today is for those who prefer the conventionally conservative sort of thing.

It's a story-and-a-half, four-room Cape Cod Colonial, with a fifth room possible in the upper part of the house. Two bedrooms, bath, living room and kitchen with dining area make up the first floor plan, while the space above could be finished off at any time to make a third bedroom. If the needs of a growing family required another. Or, if two bedrooms suit the size of the family, the upstairs could be made into a convenient guest apartment.

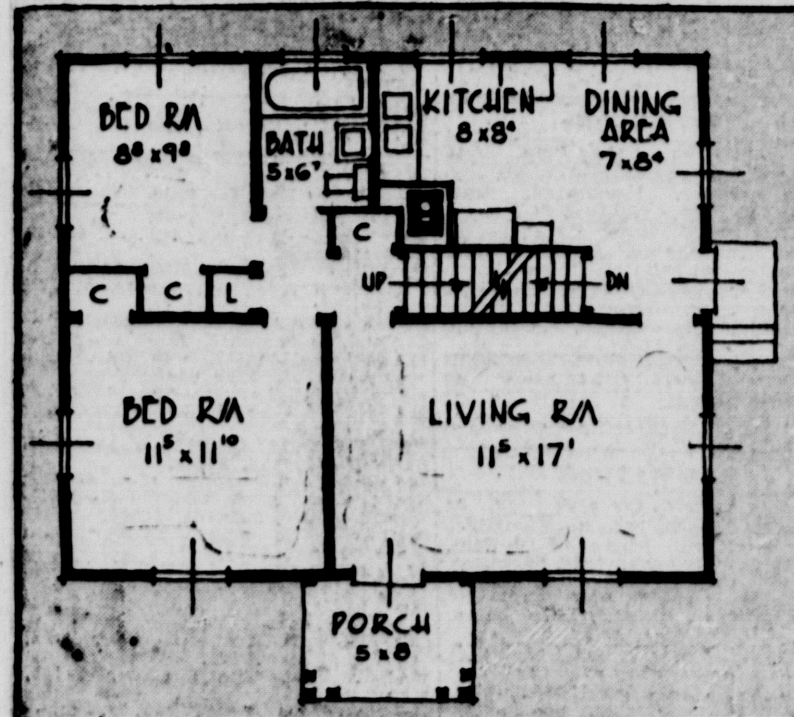

Here, for example, is the space which could be made into a third bedroom if required. It would make a fine guest apartment, too.

Designed to Meet the Tastes of those who like their homes styled in a conventionally conservative manner, is this story-and-a-half four-room Cape Cod Colonial house. The upper part can be made an extra room.

Glimpse of the Living Room shows it to be light and cheerful, with ample window space and room enough to place the family furniture attractively. A strategic mirror might be used to make it appear larger.

Two Bedrooms, Living Room and kitchen with dining area constitute the first floor. Of course, extra rooms might also be added to this part.

He takes a keen interest in community affairs, and was one of the principal founders of the Bucks County Playhouse.

Mr. Chapin has the only vineyard in the county, with over 1200 vines under cultivation. He says that he gets the beetles don't.

The tale is that he makes his own

a single Secretary of National Defense. The Republicans claim—and are entitled to—credit for the bipartisan support without which the American foreign policy would be utterly ineffectual. Under the leadership of Senator Vandenberg, the Republicans have raised that policy above the plane of politics, made it possible for us to present a united front on international affairs.

THOUGH both the universal military training and the Army-Navy merger bills are before the Congress as a result of recommendation from President Truman, a Truman commission and a Truman Cabinet, nevertheless there are almost as compelling reasons for bipartisan support of them as for foreign policy. In that both are essential to national defense they are clearly linked to foreign policy. It is axiomatic that foreign policy is effective in the exact ratio that national defense is strong. No nation whose military forces are subject to dual direction or to whose defense resources have become enfeebled and unprepared is in position to assert or sustain anything like the world leadership to which events have committed us.

THERE is nothing new about these proposals. Both have been argued and debated at great length and for a long time. They were both before Congress at the last session with the strong support of the Democratic President, his Cabinet and an imposing array of nonpolitical private citizens and nonpolitical organizations. Their press endorsement is overwhelming, and it is difficult to deny that both are very much in the national interests. Yet, the Democratic President and the Democratic Congress were unable to put either through at the last session.

NOW, they have been submitted again—this time to a Republican Congress by the Democratic President. The Army-Navy merger bill has been put on the "must" list by Republican Senator Robert A. Taft. Representative Andrews, of New York, and Senator Curney have moved to present the universal training bill to both House and Senate Armed Services Committees. The Senate committee already has approved the bill unanimously. Hearings in the House will be held, it is said, to a minimum. The hope is to pass both bills before adjournment July 31.

IF THAT is done, it, of course, will be through Republican votes and because Republican leadership has given both proposals the right of way. As a result, the Republicans would greatly strengthen their record. They would have given a demonstration of refusing to play politics when national interests of this kind are involved. They would have shown themselves patriotically above opposing or refusing support to vital and needed legislation solely because it is requested by a Democratic President.

THUS, they would commend their party to the voters and serve the country at the same time. The soundness and the necessity of these bills is generally conceded. They are backed by the great majority of informed and thoughtful men, regardless of party. The real danger now is that they may be lost through inertia or because of a last-minute jam. That has happened before. It is a Republican responsibility to see that it does not happen again.

the contract for about 250 tons of coal at $11.75 a ton. Although some time ago the school janitors expressed the idea that soft coal is too dirty and smoky, it was discovered that it would cost about $1500 more to use hard coal and it was felt that this money could be more wisely expended on some other factor in the school budget.

Dr. Halderman, who said about 15 school districts pay $31,945.88 in tuition for out-of-town students, reported the sum of $28,752 paid. Individual tuition annually amounts to $4,221.54 with the amount of $3,661.90 paid and a balance of $559.64 due. He told the board there are no problems connected with the collecting of tuition and that the out-of-town districts and parents deserve credit for their co-operation.

Dr. Halderman, who said the present enrollment is 1032, expressed the idea that next year's enrollment will be greater and the tuition may reach a larger figure.

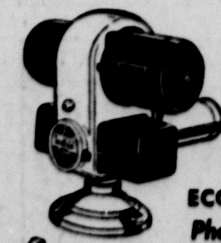

Continuing a tradition, the board authorized the holding of summer school with a faculty of four teachers and the four subjects, English, history, mathematics and science will be taught. Students from grades seven through 12 will attend and the sessions will last four weeks.

Inside Your Congress

It is significant that the loudest propaganda to veto the tax bill comes from the Communists and fellow-travellers. It is also believed that Stalin wants a depression in America to weaken its power and prestige throughout the world. The surest way to start a depression is to keep taxes high. The power to tax is the power to destroy jobs.

The more money the politicians spend, the less you have to spend. The National Life Insurance Company estimates that consumers are paying 22 cents in taxes out of each dollar of income. Add taxes paid by business companies and the total tax bill to national, state and local governments (if Truman kills this bill) will be $48,500,000,000 or 28% of national income.

In 1929, the taxes of the federal government amounted to $27 per person. Today, it is nicking your pocketbook $286, an increase of $259 over 1929. For a family of four, the Increase over 1929 is $1,036 a year. The best way to increase "take-home" pay is to reduce taxes. That helps everybody.

Taxes are the boll-weevils of business and jobs. Only the extraordinary demand for goods, here and abroad, covers up the weevils. They will emerge. We can't finance prosperity forever by sending abroad each year $12,000,000,000 of our wheat, cotton, oil, coal and goods for which we will never be paid.

England is sliding down hill. So is France. High taxes are a big reason. As the "London Economist" points out, when "a man's earnings decline progressively as his output increases, so that he gets a smaller reward for his last hour of work than for his first," his output falls off.

Taxes kill every business incentive except to evade them.

As Mr. Bernard Baruch so wisely says: "If governments will get out of the way, people will begin to trade." Big government is the curse of the modern world. Its waste is colossal; its mistakes gigantic.

Someday we will have to emphasize work, rather than welfare. Welfare finally comes only from work. We have gone stupid crazy on welfare. In Lawrence County, Indiana, welfare costs more than all other services of the county combined, roads, bridges, jails, court houses, etc.

The bureaucrats say: "We will figure out what we need, and then tax you accordingly." We should reverse that completely and emphatically. We should say to them: "We, the people, will figure out how much we will tax ourselves, and then you arrange your affairs accordingly."

The new doctrine of government is: What is my fair share of what

Arm and Shoulder Loveliness

Leslie Brooks of the silver screen has lovely shoulders.

By HELEN FOLLETT

BEAUTIFULLY lined shoulders and arms of graceful proportions are important beauty items to any woman who strives to attain anatomical perfection. They are dependent upon good musculature and just the right padding of adipose tissue. They are rewards that come to the girl who is athletically inclined. Golf, tennis, swimming will keep them in form. With plenty of muscle movement the contour remains youthful.

A splendid method of attaining smooth shoulders and symmetry of the upper arms is to shrug the shoulders, not casually as may be your custom when expressing doubt or displeasure, but with purpose.

Sit in Chair

Sit in a straight back chair, hands down at the sides. Take a deep inhalation, lifting the shoulders high, pulling up the elbows, but keeping the arms straight. While exhaling, send the shoulders and arms forward, then back; still keeping the hands down at the sides. These movements will give the upper portion of your torso a good workout. It is a splendid way of ridding oneself of a small roll of fat on the upper back. It will also bury prominent collar bones. Works for the good of the plump and the skinny. You can do it at odd moments, if nobody happens to be looking.

Beautiful arms are shapely and white. The underlying form cannot be altered, but the skin surface can be kept in perfect condition by massage with a heavy cream, followed by a talcum rub. This treatment will be a salolement to the poor dear whose fins are speckled with goose flesh.

Arm loveliness is also dependent upon graceful movement. They should have an easy pose, not too far forward, not too far back. Flexibility of the muscles, together with a flexible wrist movement, must be cultivated.

conducted the lodge ritual for the occasion, with Francis Wear, exalted ruler, presiding.

Charles G. Rathke, chairman of Flag Day committee of the lodge, addressing the scouts, said: "There are really two honors being paid here tonight. Our Elks Lodge has previously presented boy scouts with flags but I believe that this is the first time that Boy Scouts have been present at a Flag Day ceremony of our lodge. We feel highly honored."

Then Chairman Rathke told the scouts to "never cease being scouts. There are other boys continually coming along so you should go on and become scoutmasters and teach the youngsters who will follow you to be good scouts. Keep on being scouts, and good scouts, even if you are 80 years old."

The purpose of the meeting was explained by Exalted Ruler Wear, who also gave a brief history of the flag, and then followed the presentation.

Lights in the room were dimmed and a small American flag mounted high on the wall waved in a breeze from a concealed fan. The scouts snapped to attention and, numbering 25, stood in a hollow square.

The flag was accepted by Charles Holderried on behalf of the troop. Holderried is the scout selected to be held in Paris in August, he being accorded this great honor through the efforts of the Bristol Chamber of Commerce.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the scouts were invited to the social session room where refreshments were served.

New equipment has been purchased by companies at Feasterville, Newportville, Dublin and Perkassie.

Financial secretary reported 475 members plus six new members, with 321 paid up; 54 companies affiliated plus one new one.

Harold Heltz, president of the Bucks Co. Fire Police, outlined details of fire policemen's work. The speaker of the evening, Congressman Franklin W. Ruth, who is also pastor of five churches on a circuit near Reading, told of his experiences as a fireman. He informed he had started at "the end of the hose line," adding that he now helps lift coffers of the companies. The Hon. Mr. Ruth is a former Quakertown resident.

RIGHT SOIL QUERY

WASHINGTON, (INS) — The wise gardener asked, "Do I have the right soil to produce strong vigorous plants?" You can judge whether your soil is properly fertile by looking at its past performance, says John Dodge, horticulturist at Washington State College. If it produced good vegetable last year, chances are it's in pretty good condition this year. Most soils are improved when either manure or the right commercial fertilizers are added to them. At this late season, however, manure or compost should be well-rotted to be effective. See the county extension agent about just which fertilizers to get.

paint brushes and other implements, approximately 50 men, members of the Dublin Lions Club and the Dublin Fire Company, turned out Monday evening to re-condition the community playground at Dublin.

Working from seven o'clock until dark, the men built and painted seesaws, planted a number of poles to be used in illuminating the playground and moved several small buildings.

Commencement exercises were held at 12 noon, yesterday, at the Soleybury School for Boys. Dr. Edgar J. Fisher, New York, N. Y., was the speaker.

Dr. Fisher was formerly professor of history at Robert College, Istanbul, and taught at the American University at Beyrouth, Syria, and is now Assistant Director of the Institute of International Education.

Dr. Carlos Hickethier, head of the Chemical Laboratories of the State Water Works of Argentina, who is visiting in Princeton, N. J., recently called on Superintendent Lawrence Newell, Sr., at the Morrisville Water Works to see a typical chlorine dioxide installation.

Superintendent Newell, in his 25th year at the Morrisville plant, has become well known for his use of liquid chlorine under the breakpoint method and also for the use of chlorine dioxide as a treatment for taste and odor removal.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Edward Gearhart Yeomans, Pastor,
Bristol Presbyterian Church

O Lord, cleanse our hearts, we beseech Thee. Prepare us for the morning when we shall come together in the fellowship of worship within Thy sanctuary. May earth's noises be silenced. May our tense spirits be relaxed. May we come into Thy presence with grateful hearts and glad spirits, acknowledging Thee as our God and Father, and Thy Son, Jesus Christ, as our Lord and Saviour. Amen.

ANNOUNCE CARD
FOR BOXING BOUTS
MONDAY NIGHT

Trio of Local Boys Will Appear in Four-Round
Bouts

CROYDONITE ON LIST
New Cover Installed On The Ring to Improve Conditions

Matchmaker "Sammy" Moffo has announced the opponents of the boys from this locality who will appear in the opening outdoor professional boxing show in the St. Ann's A. A. arena, Wood street, Monday night.

The trio of boys from this section will appear in four-round bouts.
Jesse Rodgers, Croydon, will fight Lee Curly, of Trenton. Rodgers gained quite a bit of experience in his bouts here last boxing season and was just starting a winning streak when the outdoor season came to a close.

"Johnny" Ritter, of Bristol, will fight Wally Hill, Trenton, in one of the bouts. Ritter is making his boxing debut and in training sessions with Rodgers has showed up well.

The other Croydonite listed is Robert Klecha who is scheduled to meet Leon Brown, Philadelphia.
Brown has had only a few bouts and it should be interesting to see two new leather-punchers in action.

Matchmaker Moffo and his assistant, Elmer Yorty, of Cornwells Heights, promise the fans plenty of action in the windup which will see the Cuban 126-pound champion, Rene Camecho, stepping around Philadelphia, in the first of a double wind-up.

Yesterday, a new cover was installed on the ring. Last season, several fighters claimed the cover was worn so that it made them slip and lose their footing, stopping their best punching.

The Bristol fight promoters are endeavoring to secure the best talent available to fight in the local arena and are also arranging to put on several amateur boxing shows during the season.

WEEK-END SPORTS BILL

This evening at 8.30 o'clock the Croydon "Vets" will play at Elmer, N. J., meeting the Gloucester All-Stars, under the lights. Tomorrow afternoon the "Vets" return to Lee-don's field to play the strong Upper Darby team.

St. Ann's A. A. leaders of the Suburban League, will have East Germantown as their opponents on the Maple Beach field tomorrow afternoon.

Bristol Senior Legion team will play the Imhoff Post Legion team tomorrow afternoon on the Memorial Park field.

Fans who enjoy speedboat racing will go to Eddington to see the best outboard drivers in the East compete. Time trials will get under way at 12 o'clock noon, with the first race getting started at 2.30 o'clock.

Bristol Youth League games are scheduled for tomorrow afternoon with the eight teams being in action, while the Bristol Suburban League games will be played Monday evening before the boxing bouts.

Outdoor Commencement Exercises Are Awaited

LANGHORNE, June 14—Not only members of the class of 1947, Langhorne high school, but the faculty and the public in general, are looking forward to the out-door exercises which will mark commencement here on Monday evening at the hour of six. In case of inclement weather the program will be held in the Casino, South Langhorne.

Dr. Paul L. Cressman, director, bureau of instruction, Harrisburg, will be the speaker. Student speakers will be: Ethel Craven, Joann Burtoe, Theresa Sayre, and Walter Baumelster.

Baccalaureate service is scheduled for Sunday at eight p. m. in the Friends Meeting House. Dr. George Walton, headmaster of George School, will be the speaker.

FOREST FOREIGN LEGION WASHINGTON, (INS) — A foreign legion of U. S. forest and shade trees is proposed by Dr. Curtis May, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, forest pathologist of the Bureau of Plant Industry, Soils, and Agricultural Engineering. Extensive plantings of trees in foreign lands would provide a strong defense against the invasion of devastating tree pests, says Dr. May. Such plantings would enable pathologists to test our trees in the presence of foreign insects or diseases. They would be of special value in subjecting U. S. species to pests such as the chestnut blight that cause little damage to native trees in foreign lands but are a virulent parasite to some trees in the United States.

Mosquito Control and Speeding Are Discussed

The Fleetwing Estates Civic Asso-

Fleetwing Drive, home of Lawrence N. Harrison.

The endangering of children by speeding motorists was discussed.
Traffic signs, it was reported, may be obtained from Bristol Township officials, or from an automobile association at cost. Local drivers will be requested by the association to observe an unofficial 15-mile speed limit within the Estates.

Robert Drake reported that erecthe electrical cost. Members present generally agreed that co-operative porch lighting by residents would meet average street lighting needs.

It was suggested that someone in the Estates be deputized, to com-

Solebury Headmaster Is Given Oxford Scholarship

SOLEBURY, June 14—On the 20th of June, Arthur H. Washburn, headmaster of Solebury Boys' School, will leave for Oxford University, England, to study, and will also travel on the continent. Mr. Washburn will sail on the "Mauretania." The trip is the result of an invitation from British parents. During the war several secondary schools and colleges offered scholarships to British children who had been sent over here out of range of the bombings. In gratitude for the hospitality given their children during the war, some of the British parents set up a fund to cover the tuition and maintenance expenses for a summer's study at Oxford and have invited American headquarters of the schools their children had attended.

While Mr. Washburn is overseas he will see some of the Solebury graduates, and he plans to visit France again.

Solebury Boys' School was founded in 1924. This year ten per cent of the students have been from overseas, and several of the students will be going abroad this summer.

made in the Bowman's Hill section of Washington Crossing Park under the direction of Chief of Police in a campaign to make the picturesque State park a place safe for people to enjoy.

The latest arrests included John Vallo, Lawrence st., Allentown, arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct, and sentenced to 30 days in the Bucks County Prison by Justice of the Peace John Simon, of New Hope.

Ernest Antonelli, 15 Robertson st., Morrisville, was arrested on a charge of conducting a picnic in the park without a permit and damaging trees and shrubbery. He was fined $25 and directed to pay $3.50 costs when taken before Justice Simon, where he pleaded guilty.

On a charge of reckless driving in the Bowman's Hill section, John A.
Dorylis, Jr., Chalfont, was arrested, and fined $10 and costs by Justice Simon after he had pleaded guilty to the charge.
